

Frankfort lets sewer contract to Robertson

FRANKFORT — At a meeting of the Village Board Monday night a contract was awarded to C.W. Robertson Excavating Co., of Manhattan, for extending a water main 1,300 feet from the existing line on U.S. 45, north of U.S. 30, and 2,300 feet along Industry Avenue, east of Center Road.

Robertson's total bid of $35,776 was lowest of seven submitted, and John Djerf, an associate of Robert E. Hamilton, village engineer, recommended its acceptance.

Robertson also agreed to put in a 10-inch main on U.S. 30 from Elm Street to the east line of the Big Farmer plant, at the unit prices set forth in his bid. This work will be done through a change order authorized by the board. It has been estimated that it will cost about $6,000.

It was explained by Trustee Wilbert Klier, chairman of the Water and Sewer Committee, that this loop is needed to insure a water supply for Connecticut Hills in the event it was necessary to close off other mains.

The board also plans to replace a section of four-inch main running from White Street under U.S. 45 to U.S. 30 with a 10-inch line but will defer this action until a later date. Industry Avenue is between one-quarter and one-half mile south of Laraway Road.

The other bids submitted on the water project were: Blaine Saxton, Mokena, $37,972; J. Marich & Sons, Lemont, $38,650; Hulett Corporation, Oak Forest, $42,333; Nick & John Excavating Co., Joliet, $42,931; Alpha Construction, Hazelcrest, $42,500; and Dawn Plumbing, Frankfort, $49,327.

The village board also awarded a contract for street repairs to Richard Wunder, Plainfield. Wunder's bid of $16,518 was lowest of three submitted and Djerf recommended acceptance.

The other two bids were $17,236, by Crown Trygg, Joliet, and Graham Construction Co., Joliet, $17,583. The engineer's estimate was $16,476. Before the work can be started, however, the state must approve the bid, which is a formality when bid and estimate are practically the same, it was pointed out.

Other business disposed of by the board included:

— Approval of a 10-lot subdivision on Ontario Street, east of Center Street, submitted by the owner, Wayne Johnson. Johnson is installing sewer and watermain at his cost, and assumes responsibility for tap-ons at the property line for each lot.

He is to blacktop that portion of Ontario Street within the village limits and install curb and gutter. It is to be completed within 18 months.

— Annexation of 84th Avenue from U.S. 30 north to the line of the Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

— Annexation of the property to the telephone company on 84th Avenue. Illinois Bell is planning a modern plant on the property that will serve the area.

— Approval given to the action of the Village Zoning Board of Appeals granting Frank Ruda an R-1-A classification for his property at 229 Elm Street, previously zoned R-1. R-1-A will permit him to erect a duplex.

— Approval given by the board to the variation granted by the zoning board permitted him to have 19 living units in each of two apartment buildings south of U.S. 30 in Lincoln Meadows.

It was originally zoned for two 18-unit buildings. He has the ground space to permit the extra unit, it was reported. The zoning and annexation matters were presented to the board by Village Attorney August J. Santoro.

Santoro was instructed to consider an ordinance to give stricter control over mini-bikes. Barred from the streets and sidewalks mini-bike riders are reported utilizing vacant lots for their sport to the annoyance of nearby residents.

The board concurred in Mayor Glenn Warning's appointment of Mrs. Margaret Gix to the village Plan Commission. Mrs. Gix, who resides in Connecticut Hills, is active in the operation of the Park District and the District Library.

Library to buy land

MOKENA — Agreement has been reached between the Mokena Grade School District 159 and the Mokena District Library under which the library is to acquire two acres of the Willowcrest grounds for a future home.

The future library site fronts on 195th Street, immediately north of the Willowcrest Primary School. It is centrally located in the library district, convenient to both public and parochial school children, and in good walking distance for village residents, it was pointed out, and there is ample off-street parking space.

The library district will pay the school district $15,600, or $7,800 an acre. The Will County Board of School Trustees is to conduct a hearing in the near future at which it will rule on the proposed sale.

In further business at this meeting of the school board it was reported that the village has turned over to the district the sum of $4,067.80, which it had collected from Hillcrest Developers.

This money, which was paid under the terms of an ordinance requiring builders to donate cash or land to the school district to offset the long lag before taxes are collected, can be used only for building purposes, according to a board spokesman.

Supt. James Ennis reported to the board that Miss Mary Donahue's leave of absence has been terminated in favor of retirement because of ill health. Miss Donahue has been a junior high language arts teacher in the Mokena district for the past 15 years.

He also reported that Miss Elaine Grant's leave of absence also has been terminated because of illness. She has been a member of the teaching staff for the past 10 years.

Mrs. Ruth Welsch asked that her leave of absence be cancelled. She has taught in the district for the past six years. Supt. Ennis also reported he has received a letter of resignation from Mrs. Valerie Horras. The board accepted the personnel report made by the superintendent.

The board decided to employ another full time male custodian to work the 3 to 11 shift. It was agreed that custodians will be eligible for three weeks of vacation after 10 years of service.

Parents are reminded that they can pay school fees anytime this summer at the Carpenter Street School. The office is open Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 to 4 p.m.

The fee for kindergarten is $8, which includes milk for the year. Book rental for grades 1-8 will be $13.

Interceptor sewer bids sought

NEW LENOX — New bids are being sought by the village of New Lenox for installation of a 24-inch interceptor sewer that will serve the Levitt and Sons development and adjacent territory. Because the size is larger than necessary to serve the Levitt development, the village will pay part of the cost.

Bids on the project were opened at the village board meeting July 5 and the contract was tentatively awarded to Blaine Saxton, Mokena contractor. But under the pre-annexation agreement covering the development, Levitt has the power to reject any bids in which it participates in the cost.

Saxton's original bid was $197,000 but he told the village board he would reduce it by $20,000, if the bid were awarded him in five days. The reason for this discount, it was explained, is that Saxton is winding up the installation of water mains for the village and thus would be spared the time and expense of bringing machinery to the job.

The Levitt people believe that Village Engineer Robert E. Hamilton had estimated too much rock work and Saxton, who has been digging around in New Lenox for several months, said the engineer's estimate for rock work was too low. The price given by Saxton for rock work was higher than that of another bidder who figured there was less rock than estimated.

The developer liked this second bid which would have cost them $382 more than the Saxton figure, it was said, but it would have cost the village $12,400 more.

So the village board last week rejected and the engineers instructed to advertise for new ones.

Also sought by the village are bids on the installation of an iron filter as part of the new water system. There is considerable rust reported and village authorities decided to eliminate it through installation of a filter.

John Djerf, an associate of Hamilton, has advertised twice for filter bids and the result has been zero-zero. The engineers explained to the board last Wednesday night that the job was too large for a small contractor and too small for a big one. Hamilton had hopes of getting a large contractor working in the area to give him a figure on the job.

The filter is about 14 feet in diameter and approximately 25 feet high, Hamilton said. There is a lot of pipe work to be done so most of the building housing the filter will be built around it, it was reported. The Will County Health Department is now involved in the Kimber Drive and Hauser Court water problem, it was reported at the village board meeting that an investigator from environmental agencies was due in the village this week.

The people want to get service from the village's new water department but Hauser has threatened to sue the village if it does. The village claims that when Hauser installed water mains on Kimber Drive and Hauser Court he agreed that the lines would become the property of the village when it established a central water system. Hauser denies this. The village hopes to get the case settled without spending other than a nominal sum of money.

There have been delegations of residents from the areas as at recent board meetings urging the village board to take action and provide them with water.

Board seeks remodeling plans

FRANKFORT — When the Village Board holds its regular meeting Aug. 7, it is possible that it will decide on the course it is to take to alleviate the crowded conditions of its present quarters.

Trustees Richard Trevathan and Wilbert Klier, of the Public Property and Grounds Committee, are to meet with Burton Breident, administrative assistant of the village, and Gene Tullos, architect, to discuss the situation and come up with a recommendation to the village board.

The board now has complete plans for remodeling the village hall that would make use of space at the west end of the building formerly used by the fire department, as a council chamber, and providing office space for the various departments in the rest of the building.

Tullos also has made some preliminary drawings for alterations in the large frame building on the southwest corner of Hickory and Kansas Streets, that was purchased by the village last year.

The preliminary drawings for this building include a public meeting hall, with a seating capacity of 91, at the corner of Kansas and Hickory Streets, plus a 12 by 14-foot conference room, a kitchen and toilet facilities.

A staircase at the northside of the building would give access to the second floor where there would be two meeting halls and toilet facilities. Exits also are provided so if the necessity should arise the building could be emptied quickly, Tullos pointed out. There also would be a stairs at the south side of the building.

The west end and south sides could be utilized by the village for storage of equipment and repair shops.

In another drawing Tullos shows a type of interior mall with a passage way, tastefully decorated, giving access to shops on both sides. The reason for this suggestion, the architect explained, was that the rental of these shops would produce revenue to help meet the cost of alterations and maintenance.

Mayor Glenn Warning voiced the opinion that the village might get some aid in the development of this building from organizations in the village, such as the Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce.

He pointed out, however, that in his opinion it was important now to relieve the congestion in the present village hall. "We have been discussing this for a year or better," he said, "and it is time we take action instead of talking."

So far the only estimate of cost that has been mentioned was on the remodeling of the village hall and that was put at someplace between $25,000 and $35,000. Tullos had no figures at this time as to the cost of renovating the second building. He did say, however, that suppliers were limiting price quotes to 14 days, and that building prices generally were rising.

It was finally decided to defer action until the next meeting when the committee was expected to report back with a recommendation. It was the hope of the trustees that estimates on both jobs — even rough estimates — will be forthcoming in the committee's report.

"We should not limit ourselves just to the present," Mayor Warning said. "We can't look too far into the future but we should build so that it will be adequate for the village's needs 10 or 15 years from now. We shouldn't do a half job."

District 144 hires 4 teachers

MARKHAM — Contracts have been extended to four new teachers for the Elementary School District 144, to which Oak Forest's Fieldcrest School is a part, for the 1972-73 school year.

The Board of Education approved the contracts Monday evening during the board meeting held at the district's recently opened Chateaux School in Hazel Crest.

Sharon Ellen Rotter will teach fifth grade at the Canterbury School. She received a bachelor's degree from Washington University in June.

Carol Jean Taylor will teach in the intermediate grades at Highland School. She is a graduate of Michigan State University and has 15 credits in graduate school. She has had 1½ years of previous experience.

Paul Wayne Hoffman has been extended a contract to teach science at the Canterbury Junior High School. He is a recent graduate of Illinois State University with a major in chemistry and math and a minor in physics.

LeRoy H. Britt has been contracted to teach music in Highlands School. He received a bachelor's degree from the American Conservatory of Music in June.

The board also approved the replacement of the Gestetner copying machine in the district's central office. The new machine costs $1,150. The school will receive a discount of $115 and a trade in of $135 and $50 worth of supplies for a total cost of $900.

Approval was given by the board for the leasing of a telephone recording machine at a cost of $27.50 per month and an installation charge of approximately $50.00. The machine will be installed at the home of secretary to the superintendent, Miss Shirley Foster. Principals call Miss Foster early morning and in the evening for substitute teachers. Supt. Harold Tompkins pointed out, and when Miss Foster is not available the principals must call back.

Tompkins said that there are 15 to 25 calls for substitutes. This machine will allow a principal to make one call at anytime of the day or evening.

Jazzmen find 'music a healer' at hospital gig

Story time... five jazz players were gathered at Hines Hospital. Earl Murphy, banjo, W. Jones, drums, Jim Beebe, trombone, Bobby Ballard, trumpet, and myself at the — don't say it; the beat-up pianos find a home among the beat-up. There was to be another player on the gig but he must have lost his way. We were there courtesy of the American Federation of Musician's "live music" fund. Our national union promotes listening to live music. The room is large enough to seat some 75 people; women, men, white, black.

You get so you can smell that "down" feeling and it permeated the premises. But music is a healer, if only temporary. So the doctors of music went to work. The requests flowed. Anything from "Stardust" to an Irish tune; "play a blues or somethin' lively." I'm telling's you, we earned our keep this is somethin' you don't do for money. It starts with a room full of people who won't talk; then a bit of chatter. Finally, a face lights up here and there. We mix and make small talk. A smile here, a smile there. Someone decides they can do the Charleston. More smiles. And that's an achievement. That's what you settle for — oh yeh — some applause. Almost some light-heartedness as they walk out and the room empties.

It's hot and you're sweaty but you feel good about your day's — night's work.

South Suburbia... That yearly jazz bash at Chicago Heights Country Club occurs Aug. 6 in the afternoon. As usual, Bill Tinkler has gathered the best available greats in jazz from around the Chi area. Look for the Quinn Wilson tuba, banjo by Buddy Lee plus the other regulars. Yeh, I'll be there, but this year Bill T. will have to sit it out. Doctor's orders. So he'll direct... July 28, I present a jam session at Oak Lawn, 102nd St., at Major. It's a 9 p.m. happening. Some 14 cats will cut loose, not all at once, playing with the zest and fervor they feel when it's music for kicks. It's free so be sure to make the scene.

Listen: "The Genius of Charlie Christian-Solo Flight." Columbia-G 30779. Charlie might well have been the first guitarist who used an amplifier. Here we are taken back to '39 as Christian is heard in various Benny Goodman settings. Mostly it's small groups featuring, besides C.C. such greats as Lionel Hampton vibes; Goodman, clarinet; Count Basie, piano; and Jo Jones or G. Krupa, drums. Some tracks have Jack Teagarden on trombone and Cootie Williams on trumpet. This is a beautiful package of 2 LP's. So you get to hear and enjoy the fine improvisations of guitarist C. Christian. I certainly recommend it.

"The Immortal King Oliver" — Milestone MLP 2006. Besides hearing an authentic jazz giant (Armstrong credits Oliver with his own development), you hear the tunes of jazz-master pianist Jelly Roll Morton and Louis A. himself is heard. It's quite a package but the newly arrived listener beware: this early sound of the 20's could throw you. All I can say is give it a listen. King Oliver is so great that I wish he were around so I could play some music with him. As jazz history, or jazz education, or, if you dig, as I do, enjoyment, this belongs on every jazz shelf.

"Chicago Ain't Nothin' But A Blues Band" (Delmark 624) is a priceless collection of tracks cut by Chicago blues singers and players that gasses me. Sunnyland Slim, J.T. Brown, Morris PeJoe, Jo Jo Williams, Eddie Clearwater, Harmonica George. Man, enjoy yourself for this is good time — all kinds of times music. It's a sound I'd like to run into when I'm on the town. Drop by Jazz Record 7 W. Grand and pick-up...

In case you missed it Emmet Elementary School in Chicago will now be named Louis Armstrong Elementary. Big bands are the 'in' thing at Monticello Raceway near New York City. During July, Stan Kenton, Bob Crosby, Woody Herman and Duke Ellington graced the bandstand. During August, Dizzy Gillespie, Lionel Hampton and Buddy Rich take over... Wow!

What a concert Thursday nite, July 20 at the Mall. To the thousands that attended and stayed on and on, thank you. It happened in Park Forest. See you... take care.

MARKHAM — A major medical program for Elementary School District 144 employees presented by the Blue Cross and Blue Shield Companies was accepted by the Board of Education Monday evening.

Oak Forest's Fieldcrest School is in District 144.

Richard Schilf, acting as an independent resource person, told the board that the Blue Cross and Blue Shield program "offers the best over all plan with a reduced premium."

Programs also had been offered by Payan Stitt Insurance Corporation and the Horace Mann Company.

A motion was introduced to refer the bids back to Insurance Broker Jack Payan for further study before adoption. The motion was withdrawn when board member Fred Palmer pointed out that the board would be setting a precedent in allowing bidders to review competitor's bids.

In other board action:

— the blacktopping, patching and sealing bid "not to exceed $14,290" from the Callaghan Paving and Sealing Co. of Oak Lawn was approved.

— the Old Republic Insurance Company's bid of $2.00 per student for student insurance was accepted. This is the same as last year. This is a voluntary program for the students offered at no cost to the district.

— the present board policies on transportation of pupils and students who may bring their lunch to school were continued.

— the inservice workshop program was approved to be forwarded to the Education Service Region office for approval.

— a decision on textbooks for the Canterbury Elementary School was delayed until the Aug. 14 meeting.

— a bid of 38 cents per lunch for students' sack lunches from the Landshire Co. was approved.

— The tentative budget was approved and the public hearing on the budget was set for Monday, Aug. 28, 8 p.m. at the central office in Markham.

— landscape grading at Chateaux School was approved.

— the tax levy of 3.1265 compared to last year's 3.1536 was submitted by Supt. Harold Tompkins and approved by the board.

— a request for reimbursement of Title III program expenses amounting to 33 percent of the total cost of the program was approved.

— the board agreed to resubmit its request to the Illinois School Board Commission for building funds. District 144 has a request on file at the present time but the district also has $200,000 bonding power remaining. The district is not eligible for a commission building loan if it has bonding power remaining.

The board feels that by resubmitting the request at this time it might be necessary to use commission funds by the time the request comes up again for consideration by the commission.

— the board recognized the departure of Supt. Tompkins who has headed the district for the past five years. President George Hilliard said, in presenting a framed resolution of Tompkins, "It will be very difficult to replace Harold both as an individual and as an administrator."

The board is to meet tonight to begin reviewing applications for replacement of Tompkins.

Buyer questions why developer avoids repairs

By John Ostenburg

FRANKFORT — Richard Neihsel is having a difficult time keeping his composure these days. His personality seems to fluctuate between states of sadness, anxiety and anger. From all the indications, however, there is justification for his moods.

The problem began on March 30, 1971, when Neihsel and his wife decided to purchase a home from the Hoffman Rosner Corp. They visited the models for the Frankfort Square project and decided on a particular home style. Soon construction was under way and their dream of a home in the suburbs seemed close to reality. Since then, however, the dream has turned into a nightmare for the Neihsels.

It appears that the Neihsel home is not quite up to the expectations of the homeowners. They have encountered numerous complications, claim to have difficulty in acquiring the maintenance service they were guaranteed, and must now watch visual evidence that their home is literally falling apart.

It was the "falling apart" that finally became too much for Neihsel to bear. That started one evening when he closed his front door and heard a crash. Opening the door again, he was faced with the vision of toppled brick. The front had fallen off his $30,000 home.

Although Neihsel has a piece of paper from the Hoffman Rosner Corp. which states that the "seller warrants that said house will be constructed in a good and workmanlike manner in substantial conformity with the plans and specifications for said house" and that the "seller shall remedy any structural failures in said house caused by defective materials or workmanship which may appear and of which seller is notified in writing within a period of one year from the date of the closing of this sale," he is still far from jubilant. Neihsel claims he has lost confidence in such pieces of paper. Listening to him tell it, he has reason.

The Neihsels moved into their home at 315 Greenfield Lane in August of last year. Neihsel says his was the second family to move into Frankfort Square. Even while the home was being constructed, he says, he and his wife noticed small things which did not conform to plans for the home they had purchased.

He says that his notifications to the builder in these regards were met with the claim that "finishing men" would correct such. On other matters, he says, he was told by Hoffman Rosner representatives that his home would not duplicate the model he had visited prior to purchase because the model included "options" which his home did not. The Neihsels claim sales representatives did not mention such "options" at the time of purchase.

In the model home which the Neihsels visited, there is an open stairwell leading to the basement. The stairway has an attractive half-wall wooden railing at the top. In the Neihsel home there is a full plaster-board wall instead of the half-wall wooden railing.

When he asked the builder about this, Neihsel says, he was told that the open stairway was an "option" which cost approximately $300 more. Both he and his wife insist they were not told this at the time of purchase and were thus led to believe their home would include the attractive half-wall at the purchase price.

The Neihsel home has a two-car garage. The driveway leading to the garage is approximately 30 feet in length. Approximately the first 20 feet of the driveway, leading away from the house, is two lane; the last 10 feet of the driveway narrows into one lane. When he asked the builder why he had a one lane approach to a two-car garage, Neihsel says, he was told that the full 30 feet two-lane driveway cost approximately $130 more. Again, he claims, he was not told this at the time of his purchase.

Interestingly, Hoffman Rosner Corp. now offers both of these "options" as standard equipment on their homes. A representative of the firm explained that the purchase price has been boosted slightly to include the additional features.

The Neihsels also claim to have been promised a park area immediately behind their home. The land which they say was promised as the park site is now covered with quadplexes still under construction. An additional area is shown on plans to be the site of a fire station. Hoffman Rosner officials claim a park was never planned for the area.

There are other matters too, like leaking doors and basement walls, which have caused Neihsel's worries. While he admits that the Hoffman Rosner service department has made some repairs on the home, he does not feel the firm has come anywhere near the commitment made to homeowners in the guarantee. And, there are indications that Neihsel is not alone in this complaint.

Of course, to each of the complaints filed by the Frankfort Square residents there is an explanation from Hoffman Rosner representatives.

In addition, there is more than adequate indication that numerous owners of Hoffman Rosner homes are satisfied both with their residences and with the Hoffman Rosner service policy.

Yet, that Neihsel has a legitimate gripe cannot be questioned: one need only look at the front of his home and be assured that the construction is not what it should be. But there are valid questions as to the real culprit in the crisis. At present, no one is willing to admit guilt for the apparent defects in the Neihsel residence.

Neihsel's neighbors concur with him

Hoffman Rosner has made some repairs in some of the complaints. Others likewise insist that former Frankfort Square Sales Manager James L. Sheehy promised a park in the area which is now being covered by quadplexes. They also insist that no forewarning had been given by the sales office regarding the narrowing driveways. Some have some additional complaints of their own.

A number of homes, for example, have walls which prefer to curve in and out rather than stay in a straight line. Others have water problems. On a particular home there is such a large gap between the front door baseboard and the floor that one can see outside. In the laundry room of another house specifications were apparently ignored and a large air vent blocks access to the washing machine.

One of the worst of the problems had been a buckled roof. The roof had popped up so far that one could see into the attic from outside. Ironically, at 8 a.m. the morning after being informed of possible press coverage of the defective roof, Hoffman Rosner representatives sent carpenters to the home to make repairs.

After being approached by Neihsel, the HERALD made a concerted effort to examine the complaints and determine the true situation. The findings, while being far from conclusive, do shed greater light on the Frankfort Square circumstances.

One of the initial acts of the investigation was to send a reporter to the Frankfort Square sales office and model homes posing as a prospective buyer. After touring the model homes, the reporter talked with Betty F. Brockman, sales representative.

As the Neihsels had forewarned, the reporter discovered that the Hoffman Rosner sales representative was not overly cautious to warn of "options." Some items, e.g. dishwasher, air conditioning, are marked in the models as optional. On sales material other items, such as garage, basement, finished lower level, are listed as optional. However, decorative wall-papering throughout the models was told to be an option only when the sales representative was pressed on the issue. The same was true regarding an upper level porch on some models.

It was Ms. Brockman who explained that the current Hoffman Rosner policy is to install full two-lane driveways on the homes. She explained this only when asked about the driveway policy. A different sales representative explained about the open stairway policy on a second visit to the model homes.

When quizzed as to who would perform the actual building of the home, Ms. Brockman said that it is the present Hoffman Rosner policy to use their own construction crews. She said a subcontractor had built a few of the first homes in the Frankfort Square project but that he had been fired because of work which did not meet Hoffman Rosner standards. The homes she listed as having been subcontracted included the residences of Neihsel and his neighbors.

Following this interview, the HERALD writer contacted Ed Spence, the present sales manager for Frankfort Square. It was explained to Spence that the intention was to publish a story on the problems of Frankfort Square and the answers as Hoffman Rosner was willing to give them.

Spence immediately explained that the original builder of the homes in Frankfort Square had not been fired because of faulty workmanship; rather, he said, the firm was let go because of labor problems. He also insisted that the subcontractor had built more than "a few" of the original homes; the firm had built approximately 120 homes in the subdivision, he said.

Regarding the Neihsel et al

No answer to why brick fell off house allegation that sales representatives had promised a park for the area immediately east of Greenfield Lane, Spence stated flatly, "That I cannot believe." He said he himself had been involved in numerous of the Greenfield Lane sales and had not made such a promise. He likewise insisted that no other Hoffman Rosner sales representative had ever made such a promise.

Spence contended that it was never of the Frankfort Square development plans to locate a park in that area; rather, he said, from the conception of the project quadplexes and a fire station had been planned for the property. A map presented to the Will County Zoning Commission, and made available by Supervisor Glen Coburn of Frankfort, also showed no plans for a park in the area.

Spence said the complete plans for the subdivision were always posted in the sales office and had never showed such a park location, and that prospective buyers needed only to consult that set of plans to realize what was scheduled to be built in the area.

Spence also spoke regarding the three inspections which are made on the Frankfort Square homes by the Hoffman Rosner service department. According to information received from the Neihsels, three inspections are promised the homebuyer at the time of purchase. The first inspection is conducted immediately prior to moving in; a second inspection is taken 60 days after occupancy; the third inspection is conducted after 11 months of occupancy.

The Neihsels had expressed concern because some of the items pointed out at the time of their first two inspections had not been corrected. Furthermore, they claim, they have heard reports that the 11-month inspection is simply to see if the items of the first two inspections have yet been corrected. They expressed worry that this would not allow them the full year guarantee as they were promised.

According to Spence, the initial inspection is on the day of closing because "it takes an owner's eye" to see things which might be overlooked by the builders. He claims that repairs are made immediately unless a shortage of materials or some other exceptional problem occurs.

Spence said electric, heating and plumbing are considered needs for immediate improvement because they affect the homeowners ability to live in the house. Other matters are handled as soon as they can be scheduled, he said. The 60-day inspection is simply to correct matters which were noticed after moving in, he reported.

At 11 months, Spence said, a complete inspection of the house is made. "Anything of a material or workmanship nature" which is noticed as faulty will then be corrected, according to Spence. He explained that the 11-month inspection allows enough time for major problems to develop, adding "probably 99 percent of everything that is to show up will occur between November and March or April."

Regarding the brick falling off the front of the Neihsel home, Spence could offer no explanation. He did express the opinion that delay in repairing the brick was possibly due to a workmen's strike. He said wavy walls should be corrected, regardless of whether they were caused by poor materials or faulty workmanship. Regarding the misplaced air vent which blocked the one resident's access to her washing machine, Spence said the vent was possibly located differently than the vent in the model home because a different type of heating unit was used.

When asked about the home with the buckled roof, and why the service department had reportedly stated that self-sealing shingles would correct it, Spence said he had no explanation. He would add only that repairs were supposed to be made by the service department as quickly as time, manpower and materials would allow.

The HERALD writer, at the suggestion of Spence, finally visited with Sam Osland who identified himself as project superintendent. While Osland was open in most of his remarks, he expressed a feeling which could be interpreted as hostile toward Neihsel. He explained that he thought Neihsel was a "nervous" person and suggested that he might have pulled the brick off the front of his house out of anger and to make Hoffman Rosner look bad.

Osland said the brick on the Neihsel home served no functional purposes and was intended only to be decorative. He explained that the service department's delay in repairing the home, therefore, had not hindered the Neihsel's ability to live in comfort. He added that the delay was caused by the bricklayers' strike.

Osland also defended service department superintendent George Baaske against criticisms leveled by Neihsel and his neighbors. He insisted that Baaske always makes a concerted effort to repair service problems as quickly as circumstances will permit.

Neihsel and his neighbors, however, say this is not the case. They say that Baaske will often shrug off complaints by insisting that complications of certain types are strictly the responsibility of the homeowner. Too often, they say, repairmen sent to the homes by Baaske repair nothing. The homeowners claim the repair man will look around and then excuse himself by saying that he needs other tools or the help of an assistant and that he will return shortly to make the repairs. He never returns, they say.

Osland insisted this was not the case. He did indicate, however, that there was the possibility that workmen hedged on their worktime as much as possible. It was difficult for the service department to prevent this, he said.

When Osland was faced with the buckled roof problem, he replied at first by saying that he had no knowledge of this complication. When told that the homeowner had reported informing Baaske of the circumstances, he argued that the delay in making repairs was due again to the strike by laborers.

Osland had mentioned earlier, however, that Hoffman Rosner was currently using Will County workers on the Frankfort Square project; the strike was by workers in Cook and DuPage counties. He answered this by saying that in "today's age of specialization" only certain workmen will perform certain tasks. He added that the "roofers" were from Cook and DuPage counties. Apparently, he was able to contact these Cook-DuPage roofers overnight and have them at work on the roof at 8 a.m. the next day.

Following the interview, Osland allowed the HERALD writer access to the service files kept by Hoffman Rosner on the Frankfort Square subdivision. In each file were numerous slips showing that workmen had visited the houses in question on various occasions to make repairs.

In most instances, the slips were signed by the homeowners; some slips, however, had workmen's signatures. Osland said the homeowner was instructed to sign the slip only after the repairs had been made. Some of the homeowners, however, said workmen had them sign the slips simply to confirm the visit and not to confirm repairs. To the contrary, some of the homeowners reported, many of these repairs were never made.

Hoffman Rosner allows reporter access to files

Finally, Osland was asked if he would make a statement guaranteeing the Frankfort Square homeowners that any complications of a workmanship or materials nature would be repaired. He refused to make such a guarantee.

As Spence, Osland insisted that the original contractor, whom he identified as Robert Lindberg Construction of New Lenox, had not been fired because of inferior work. He emphatically stated that the firm had been let go totally because of labor problems. He said Lindberg had constructed the first 90 homes in Frankfort Square.

It is interesting to note that homes in more recent areas of Frankfort Square show few of the problems present in the homes on the south end of Greenfield Lane. Owners of these homes who were contacted by the HERALD indicated few difficulties in obtaining assistance from the service department.

A likewise favorable report was received from homeowners in Hoffman Rosner's Bolingbrook subdivision. These homeowners also expressed the feeling that their homes were well constructed and that service repairs were well handled.

In Hoffman Rosner's West Lake subdivision, homeowners also indicated that they were happy with construction of their homes. There has been, however, a recent protest by West Lake homeowners because commercial buildings were being constructed so close to residential units. The homeowners complained that sales representatives had not made this clear when selling the units.

He closed the door and the bricks fell off the front of the house. So goes the report from Richard Neihsel of Frankfort Square who has complained of construction defects in his Hoffman Rosner home. Other sections of the brick wall are currently in a wobbly state.

VERY ORIGINAL.

We call it The 14th Colony. You'll probably call it revolutionary. It's located in the scenic Fox River Valley countryside about a half mile east of Batavia. The 14th Colony is a settlement for families who value such old-fashioned virtues as good taste and community pride. It has been carefully planned with vital protections written into every deed, in the same manner Arthur T. McIntosh & Company has established the enviable communities of Inverness, Prestwick and Farnington. And it's very original. Each piece of land is irregular about one-third of an acre. The homes are inspired by Early Americana and reflect tasteful architecture and craftsmanship rarely found in the homes of today. The detailing is exquisite and warm touches of elegance abound in quarry tile foyers, beamed ceilings, curving staircases, oak floors, huge raised hearth fireplaces and wood panelling. All are built with honest quality. And while we believe in independence, every homesite has water, sewer and underground utilities. You can homestead at the 14th Colony from $39,750 to $56,000 including the fully improved homesite. Our boundaries are open every day—10 am till dark.

Buy your homesite now under contract. If you are planning to build in the future, or wish to invest in land, you can purchase your 14th Colony homesite direct from Arthur T. McIntosh & Co.—20% down, 7% simple interest.* Homesites range from $9,000 to $12,800.

A pretty girl is like a....

gunner's mate

Our Gert spends a night away from home without Big George, the Peanutbutter Kid and the rest of the tribe and she runs scared. HERALD Reporter Gert Gallagher continues describing her harrowing experiences with Army Reserve Unit Battery C while on bivouac at Camp McCoy, Wis.

By Gertrude Gallagher (Part four of a series)

CAMP MCCOY, WIS. — When I had agreed to go on maneuvers to Camp McCoy with an artillery unit from Joliet I had been assured of appropriate sleeping quarters in the MASH unit.

Majors might be important people in the army, but I learned it's better to be a lieutenant colonel.

Mrs. Jerry Bielke of the Air Force Information Office and I ranked as majors in obtaining housing in the MASH quarters. Just as we were about to be signed in a bevy of Lt. colonel nurses showed up unexpectedly. I found the army doesn't go on that rule of thumb of "wait your turn" and "first come, first served". The majors lost to the colonels. There was no room for us in MASH.

Now the army had a problem. Two women and ample sleeping quarters for 6,000 men. Rattling around in an empty barrack, cuddling up to a coal burning pot belled stove wasn't the answer.

Motel rooms in a nearby town were. Driving in a privately owned car 15 miles into town we settled in two adjoining rooms. Deciding to skip the night firing session at Fire Point 3 we drove through town looking for somewhere to buy a paper.

Bear in mind it was 7:30 p.m. on a Saturday night. I give you my word as a "Major" in the United States Army the town, streets, everything was closed up. Drugstores, grocery stores, dress shops, gum ball machines, everything. A Chicago this wasn't! There was an old fashioned peanut vending wagon complete with whistle and no customers. We couldn't even watch the dryers going around in a laundromat for thrills!

As I locked the door of my motel room for the night I realized that this was the first time in my life I had ever spent in a motel room without my family. A motel to me means vacation, means wall to wall children in cots, cribs and double beds.

Old Big Gunner Gallagher was getting scared. Scenes from "Psycho" kept coming to mind. I checked, double and triple checked each window and wall for peepholes. The shower was thoroughly inspected even to the floor drain. Pictures were swung to the side to check for holes.

Working myself into a fever of fear I did the only sensible thing — turned out the light and fell promptly asleep. Murder or no murder I couldn't be more dead than I was.

I was awakened out of a sound sleep by loud pounding on my door. Who could it be? No one knows me in this town. Anthony Perkins? What do I do? Call the proprietor? Maybe it is the proprietor. With a knife?

Where's George? Oh, George! Wife! is panicking!

Keep cool, Gertrude. You're a Big Gunner now.

The door had no chain, but I wasn't about to open it even a chain's width to the unknown pounder. No way.

Groping in the dark I called through the closed door with the original line, "Who's there?"

"mumble . . . Major . . . mumble . . . car . . . mumble . . . bag."

Through the fog of sleep I remembered. There had been a man's overnight case in the car. We had left it with a private at the barracks assuming it had shaving equipment or a teddy bear or security blanket or something.

I told Major Mumble, who mumbled something. I rather think it had to do with women in the army and his driving 15 miles to get a bag that he now learned was 15 miles back where he started from. I later learned he couldn't get it that night because the private was in a different barrack from his.

I never saw Major Mumble. I hope I never see him.

The next morning I had planned to attend an 8 a.m. mass in town. Although not a Catholic Jerry was going with me. It was she who brought my attention to our lack of "churchgoing" clothes.

Jerry had only the Air Force jumpsuit she was wearing. I was in the same old army fatigues, cap with hatpin, and the usual white sneakers under rolled up pant legs.

What the heck! Although a holdout for appropriate dress for church I said if out of all the men at Camp McCoy I was going to exert myself to go to church, God would just have to look the other way at my attire.

However, our bravado deserted us and we quietly sneaked with heads down into the last pew. For a strange bit of a minute the cap and pants had me feeling like a man. Talk about loss of identity!

Everything went well until the offertory. Fear froze me to the kneeler when I remembered the ushers usually pick someone in the back pew to take the offertory gifts up to the altar.

Whew! One crisis weathered successfully.

But the real test came at communion. Each pew emptied in succession to go to the altar.

And who was in the very last pew? Who was very last in the Communion line? Who had to walk the entire aisle of 200 pews — and back — in front of the eyes of the entire congregation and a "shook" priest?

Big Gunner, that's who. In her army pants rolled at the ankle, shirt, fatigue cap with hatpin and white sneakers. Oh to be a Protestant Jerry at this moment!

Two retired colonels had a heart seizure on the spot.

Coming out we found our borrowed car with a slow leak in the right rear tire.

"God, haven't I had enough trouble today? I promise. I won't wear army fatigues to church again!"

NEST WEEK — Getting home from Camp McCoy has its problems — and solutions.)

Gert Gallagher overlooks tradition and finds that worshipping in fatigues is just as meaningful as in "Sunday best", although it creates some anxious moments.

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

Eating tips for small children

"Mommy, I don't like this. Do I have to eat it?" Those words often create a dilemma. But you might find it easier to solve if you remind yourself that eating habits formed early in childhood develop into lifetime practices.

Independence in eating is a desirable trait to be encouraged. But don't leave to chance the learning of good judgment on your child's part. Real nutritional deficiencies can result when a child limits his food intake to a few favored foods for a long time.

The following suggestions may help children develop good eating habits.

Provide a pleasant atmosphere. Give the child an opportunity to rest or to finish whatever he is doing before he eats. All family members will look forward to mealtime if parents use this time to enjoy good food and family companionship. A happy atmosphere will do more to encourage children to learn to eat wisely than all the nagging in the world.

Use chairs and dishes suited to the child. Sometimes allowing children to eat at their own low table is a means to make mealtime pleasant for all. Small hands cannot manipulate large glasses, knives, forks, or spoons, so do use child-sized ones. Dishes with high sides will help him push food on to his spoon or fork. Small children do spill things easily and eat messily. Arrange the child's place so the dishes, table linens, furniture, and floor coverings will not be ruined. Placing a piece of sheet plastic under his chair will protect the dining room carpet as well as the mother's disposition.

Give the children some freedom of choice. Children like to select from the family table, so let them decide what and how much to eat with limits. Children tend to imitate; thus good habits are usually "caught rather than taught."

Encourage your child to feed himself as soon as he seems ready. By serving suitable "finger" foods when he begins to feed himself, you encourage his independence. When he can handle food served in manageable strips, wedges or cubes, he experiences a feeling of achievement. And don't be concerned about table manners until later when he is more skilled in using utensils. Learning to like a variety of foods is what's important at this stage.

Allow the child to help in food preparation. Obviously it takes less time to do things yourself than to supervise the child. But children learn from such experience and it gives them a feeling of self-confidence and accomplishment.

Allow enough time for eating. It takes time to learn to eat. If the child dawdles unnecessarily, it may be that the food is not suited to his taste or he lacks the ability to handle it. Other reasons for dawdling may be lack of appetite, too much talking, or boredom. If the child hasn't eaten after a reasonable length of time, the food should be quietly and calmly removed.

Prepare and serve food adapted to the small child's ability to handle it. Too large or too small pieces of food can discourage a child. Finger-foods (meat strips, carrot sticks, toast strips, lettuce wedges, etc.) make it easy for the child. Children prefer small servings, lukewarm food, one flavor at a time, bland flavors, plain and unmixed foods. They tend to dislike coarse and rough textures in food, starchy or gummy food, stringy and tougher cuts of meat, and noodles that are too long to be managed. Children's senses of degree of hotness are different from those of adults. What is warm to the parent may be hot to the child.

Serve meals regularly. Most children thrive on regularity because this gives them a sense of security and knowledge of what to expect.

Serve food attractively. Children enjoy attractive color combinations. Food that looks appetizing and is varied in texture is apt to be eaten.

Use between-meal snacks that add more than calories to the diet. With small appetites it is essential that all nutrients be supplied first. Fruit juices, fruit, vegetables, mild, simple breads, and crackers are your first choices.

Avoid offering food as a bribe. The use of foods as a bribe or a reward or withholding food as a punishment does not contribute to the development of good food habits. The mealtime should not develop into a power struggle between the parent and child. If this occurs, the child will use the mealtime as an attention getter.

Do not force-feed a child. If he is on an eating jag where all he wants is one kind of food, the jag will not last if an issue is not made of it. When a child says he is not hungry or has had enough to eat, don't force him to eat more.

Set a good example. It is easy to learn: good food habits in a family where members eat and enjoy a wide variety of foods, where mealtime is an occasion, where harmony and love exist.

Teach the child to like a variety of foods. Introduce new foods one at a time and in very small amounts. If a child doesn't accept the food, wait and try again at a later date. Next time, serve a different form of that food.

Don't discuss a child's eating habits in front of him.

Measure exactly

Measuring ingredients accurately is the key to success in baking.

Here are some suggestions to help you improve your baking:

Use standard measuring cups and spoons. When measuring liquids, set the measuring cup on a flat surface to check the measure at eye level.

To measure flour and meal, spoon the unsifted flour or meal lightly into a measuring cup until it is overflowing. Do not tap or shake the cup. Then level off the top with the straight edge of a knife or spatula. Because all-purpose flour and cake flour are finely milled, sifting is not necessary.

To measure solid fats, pack the fat firmly into a measure and level it off with a knife or spatula. If the solid fat is packaged in sticks or blocks, measuring is simplified. A one-pound block measures about two cups; a stick of butter or margarine, half a cup.

When measuring brown sugar, pack it firmly into a cup and level it off. When measuring baking powder, cornstarch, cream of tartar or spices, dip the spoon into the container and bring up a heaping spoonful; then level it off with the straight edge of the knife. And unless a recipe specifies differently, baking ingredients should be at room temperature.

Carlson's Dea Pit hearing

By Mary Straub

PALOS HILLS — Another hearing of the Environmental Protection Agency vs. Harry A. Carlson, owner and operator of the Dea pit landfill took place last Saturday morning at the Palos Hills City Hall. A scant group of five represented public attendance, and hearings officer Robert Austin commented, "Perhaps that means the problem has become less acute, and that's encouraging."

He further explained that this Saturday, July 15, hearing was to present to the public for their comments and questions the amicable settlement thus far reached between the complainant, the EPA, and the respondent, Harry Carlson.

It is perhaps important to review this case to date. Harry Carlson has used the Dea pit since June 1969. It is some 30 acres located between 107th and 111th Streets along Route 45 in Cook County. It services a population of approximately 200,000 persons in municipalities of the southwest suburbs.

In August 1971, on behalf of the EPA, the Attorney General brought charges against Carlson on several counts. The allegations are these:

1. On eight different occasions Carlson had permitted open dumping without adequate earth cover as specified for landfills.
2. On two occasions there had been failure to place one inch of cover on certain places.
3. Air pollution charges — caused by obnoxious odors.
4. Blowing paper and debris from the trucks and site itself.
5. Water pollution hazard was created by placing refuse in particular places and manners.
6. Water pollution by leachate getting into ground water.

A hearing was held Oct. 16, 1971, and 14 witnesses testified on air pollution. Carlson was given until Dec. 4, 1971 to have his engineers study these allegations. At that date in a new hearing Carlson admitted to the offenses of open dumping and inadequate covering, but he denied the charge of air pollution.

The big problem of water pollution potential resulted in Carlson's agreement to install a monitoring system for checking ground water leaving the site, and effective leachate control.

This brings the situation up to date, for at Saturday's hearing the function and efficiency of the monitoring system was reviewed, as was the terms of the settlement agreed to by the EPA and Carlson.

This settlement has five points: a. Carlson admits to the aforementioned violations; b. he will complete the installation of the landfill design as described in Exhibit A (and reviewed below); c. Carlson will post a performance bond with third party surety or other security in the amount of $35,000 after the decision of the Pollution Control Board (PCB) guaranteeing implementation of the engineering project described; d. he will file with the EPA each month progress reports on this project; e. Carlson will pay a $2,000 penalty to the state.

Exhibit A was then presented by

Chamber golf reservations still available

ORLAND PARK — Reservations are still being accepted for the annual Chamber of Commerce golf outing to be held Thursday, Aug. 3, at the Silver Country Lake.

Golf Outing Chairman Joe Czelusniak is in charge of reservations. A reservation form is included elsewhere in this issue in an advertisement for the event.

Tee off time is any time throughout the day.

Persons wishing to join the group for dinner only may do so by making those reservations also with Chairman Czelusniak.

Walter B. Satterthwaite, Jr., geology division manager of Environmental Scientists and Engineers, located in West Chester, Pa. He explained the method used to evaluate a site for pollution level and potential. It consists largely of a geological evaluation, and focuses on a detailed site investigation with test borings for water levels and materials on the site.

These borings have already been made at the Carlson pit. Schematic drawings showed their locations and the ground water flow direction. According to Satterthwaite, the majority of monitoring wells are where they should be, as against allegations made by others who claim they had been misplaced.

Said Satterthwaite regarding the charges of water pollution at the pit, "There has been some leakage through the trench lining. Our method provides for an impermeable lining of heavy clay. As it now stands, water pools and settles directly on the fill. As a remedy, the site will be lifted and rounded about ground level so that it can flow away easily." The finished site will be raised 20 to 23 feet high at its uppermost point, somewhat resembling a large kettle lid with the "pot" itself under ground level and containing the refuse collected over these past years.

"This top is carefully engineered", said Satterthwaite, "compaction procedures provide for a two-foot layer of clay material to be finished off with a one-foot organic base to receive successful planting and landscaping. The natural topographical drainage will be preserved, i.e., a south to southwest direction at midpoint of south end of landfill, and the western boundary drain point."

There has been some water contamination on the perimeter of the landfill, and a policy has been developed in cooperation with EPA. It states that a thorough sealing of the landfill floor and walls will be done, preventing water from leaving or entering the area.

Also, after water is collected in the sealed areas, it will be gradually released to flow out in the direction of the Cal Sag Channel, its natural outlet.

Satterthwaite noted that silt and fine clays present at the site renovate the water as it flows through it, and with this filtering action and precautions now to be taken there, not only will pollutants — if present — be removed from the water flowing into the channel, but this will have a beneficial effect on the channel water itself.

Satterthwaite emphasized, "Several observation wells are located at the site, and drainage has been well documented at this time."

John Ringhofer, candidate for State senate, District 8, questioned, "What if the leachate should become too heavy at any time? What are alternate plans for correction?"

Satterthwaite answered, "A safeguard for leachate control will be located in the south part of the site which is the drainage section. The observation well and tile system there would not only detect excessive leachate, but would be the injection point for treatment or the ejection point to remove leachate from the area."

In-Patient

Family dining "Rare feature"

Busy schedules of parents and children often make it impossible for the entire family to sit down to well-balanced meals every day. And since many meals are eaten away from home, there is no assurance that family members are really eating what they need.

Most mothers are aware of the importance of breakfast, but in only 25 percent of the households surveyed was a nutritious breakfast served regularly. Dinner, the main family sit-down meal for the day, was served only three times a week to the complete family.

However, busy schedules and lack of time for food preparation need not result in poor nutrition. Good foods that can be ready in seconds for snacking are milk, ice cream, cheese, fruits, vegetables, peanut butter, juices, cocoa, and sandwiches made with enriched bread.

If the three-meals-a-day plan isn't working for your family, concentrate instead on having nutritious snack foods available for busy family members.

Everyone knows I make a great peanut butter sandwich. Here's 7¢ to prove it.

Got a number?

by Mary Straub

In the last column a brief history of Numerology was given plus the letter-number chart used to determine significant numbers. If you've done your math homework, you must have arrived at the number of your name. Using the method provided you will have not only your name number but you can get the number of all your family and friends. Why?

Last time that question was tentatively answered. Ancient sages believed in the numerical set-up of the universe and so, Pythagoras and certain Hebrew Kabbalists formulated a numerological explanation for man's differences, ills, and prospects, and furthermore provided a tool which presumably can help him achieve a harmonious life responding to his revealed vibrations. One need only delve into the science of numbers and follow whatever indications arise.

Looking at the matter from a Numerologist's viewpoint, who might repeat as in Proverbs, XXII. 1, "A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches", we may discover that all names are basically good ones.

The numerical equivalent of your name is what you are now; it is the energy of your potential, your external urge. It is this that we are concerned with here. Another number is important, however, and that is the birth number taken from the date of birth.

The birth number tells of the fixed vibrations at the time of birth; it is what you basically are. It is the internal urge. It can be arrived at by giving the birth month a numerical equivalent; Jan: 1, Feb: 2, March: 3, etc., and adding this to the date and year; ex. Jan. 15, 1971 - 1 + 1 + 5 + 1 + 9 + 7 + 1, which equals 25 and is reduced to 7 (2+5). Now getting back to the name, taking the letters as on the chart below add them to arrive at your name number:

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
A B C D E F G H I
J K L M N O P Q R
S T U V W X Y Z
EX:
R I C H A R D
9 9 3 8 1 9 4	-43
M
4	-4
N I X O N
5 9 6 6 5	-31
Totals	78
7+8	-15
1+5	-6

which is his name number.

Following is an analysis of the name numbers which add up from 1 to 9.

If developed, Two is a successful, constructive analyst, Judge, Agent. Two's colors are Gold and Salmon; foods are Eggs, Fowl; Gold jewelry sets up good vibrations for Two.

Citizen aids police

TINLEY PARK - In a shooting chase incident Thursday, July 20, police arrested Raymond King, 9519 Willow Lane, Mokena, and charged him with leaving the scene of an accident, improper backing, criminal damage to property and reckless conduct.

The incident began at 175th Street and Oak Park Avenue where three cars were lined up at the stop sign.

A Hazel Crest man, Lon R. Malik, told Officer Allan Bechtel that a car, allegedly driven by King, backed up, hit his car damaging the hood and bumper, then proceeded south on Oak Park Avenue. Malik started to chase the car driven by King and was joined in the chase by the third car driven by David Schuit, Elmhurst.

Passengers in the Schuit car were Robert J. Melcher and Edward Sifford, both of Alsip.

Giving up the chase, Malik reported the incident to Tinley Park police. However, the Schuit car continued the pursuit. While Malik was at the police station, a call asking for assistance was received from Sifford, who was at the I-80 Drive-In.

Sifford told police while the Schuit car attempted to curb the King car, three shots were fired at Schuit's car. After the shooting incident Sifford got out of the car while Schuit and Melcher continued the chase.

A call by Officer Bechtel was put on (ISPERN) Illinois State Police Emergency Network, alerting other police departments of the incident.

After Bechtel and Sifford arrived at the police station a call was received from Schuit who said during the pursuit he lost control of his car and turned it over in a field.

Schuit told police that occupants of the King car had fired two more shots at his car. Checking the Schuit car, police found one bullet hole in the trunk of Schuit's car.

The arrest of King was finally made by Will County Police and it was at that time King gave police a .38 caliber Savage pistol.

The passenger in King's car was released when King told police he had nothing to do with the incident.

King's bond was set at $1,000 and his court date is Sept. 13 in Tinley Park court.

No Three: This is called the adaptable number and the number of expression. Those with 9 or 6 in their name also have a 3 sided nature like the triangle. Three's take from 1, aggression and from 2, the ability to analyze, but are apt to be flighty if undeveloped. A Three can be a Doctor, Actor, Entertainer, Lawyer. Colors are Amber, Rose. Food: Bread, Cabbage, Liver. Gems: Ruby, Amethyst.

No Four: This depicts Order and Regularity and is one of the most significant of numbers. Think of the four seasons, four compass points, the four elements. Four brings to completion by perseverance and should practice regularly in action and thought. A Four could be a Playwright, Accountant or Collector or have an interest in Biology or Design. Its colors are Blue, Emerald, Indigo. Fours foods are Asparagus, Carrots, Grapefruit, and gems are Emerald, Moonstone, Silver.

No Five: This is similar in nature to One, and it is called the adventurous number. Adventure brings to mind travel and experience, so Five might need to overcome a restlessness in order to succeed. Vocations: Craftsman, Engineer, Explorer; colors: Auburn, Lemon, Pink; Brass and Nephrite are good vibes.

No Six: This is considered the perfect number because it takes from an odd and even number (3 and 2), taking the best from each. Six gives success in exchange for honesty and uprightness in dealings.

Mayor and trustee positions a "must"

NEW LENOX - When the village board meets again tomorrow night (July 27) it is possible that it will name a mayor and trustee as successors to Mayor Joseph Hartung and Trustee Earl Schroeder who tendered their resignations several weeks ago effective Aug. 1.

The next regular meeting of the board is Aug. 2 but the meeting of July 19 was adjourned until July 27, to give Village Engineer Robert E. Hamilton a chance to get some bids, and indications were that the board might use the opportunity to choose members to replace those leaving the board.

Under the law covering village elections mayor and trustees would be appointed to serve until the next regular election, which will be next April.

If the mayor is chosen from the board there would be two trustee positions to fill. If the board goes afield for the Mayor then only one trustee would have to be named. There has been talk of naming John G. Skiniotes, 129 Francis Road, to a trustee spot.

Skiniotes ran for the board in 1971 and lost out to Lutz M. Guenther in a close race. Skiniotes is a foreman for Brown and Lambrecht, the earth moving and road building firm.

There is talk, but endeavors to pin it down to a direct quote from any of those in a position to speak, have been unsuccessful. But it persists and the name of Trustee Lutz M. Guenther is heard frequently as a choice for the job of mayor or village president as it appears in the table of organization for villages. Lutz has a degree as a civil engineer and is employed by Illinois Bell Telephone as a supervising engineer.

Green Islands

FRANKFORT - At a recent meeting of the Frankfort Chamber of Commerce some criticism was directed at the village fathers because some of the one-way street island planters showed weeds instead of flowers. The Chamber had put in these planters and had them planted. At Monday night's meeting of the village board Trustee Richard Trevathan, of the Public Property and Grounds Committee, reported that he had had the planters cleaned out, supplied with fresh soil and village workers have been planting flowers and hoping their thumbs are green.

Clara Schellhase and her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baumeister, Lincoln Estates, returned home last Monday after vacationing for 10 days at a cottage in Land 'O' Lakes, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Francisco Moreno, Frankfort, are the parents of a baby girl born Monday, July 17, at Silver Cross Hospital.

Will County 4-H Fair exhibits "world" foods

NEW LENOX — The annual Will County 4-H fair is over but the youngsters — who are the fair — are already starting projects in preparation for next year's exhibit.

Despite the devastatingly hot, humid weather that marked the fair last week, 4-H'ers, their families, friends and visitors managed to keep their cool.

Tuesday, July 18, was the curtain-raiser for the 1972 Will County 4-H Fair. Opening day features in the home economics division were the advanced foods judging and the flower arranging contest. Entries in the 13 foods classes numbered over 900 and for the first time 4-H'ers exhibited "Foods with an International Flavor."

Evaluating the entries in the flower arranging contest was Mrs. Melvin Hentze, Minooka. She selected Cathy Holz, Wilmington, Colleen Lonergan, Plainfield, and Frank Findlay, Lockport, as delegates to attend educational classes at the Illinois State Fair for further instruction.

Names as alternates were Fern Findlay, Lockport, Vivian Meyer, New Lenox, and Liz Shaw, Monee.

Meanwhile, there was plenty of action in the livestock barn. The sheep show included 30 head with Cliff Stewart and Miss Heather Stewart, both of Plainfield, serving as superintendent and judge of the sheep show respectively. Dennis Sorenson, Wilmington, had shown the champion market lamb at the lamb grading in June. Steve Francis, Wilmington, exhibited the reserve champion at the fair. Miss Stewart selected Dennis Sorenson as the top sheep showman of this year's exhibition.

The swine show followed and according to co-superintendents Ronald Crawford and Lee Kramer, both of Manhattan, 35 youngsters drove 110 swine entries. Judging the hog show was Gary Kohl, Kankakee, a successful purebred Hampshire breeder who has exported stock to Japan. Kohl named the entry of Gary Schroeder, New Lenox, as the grand champion market hog. Steve Smith, Mokena, showed the reserve champion single as well as the champion pair of market hogs. Merle Soucie was the owner of the champion Duroc gilt and Bill Strawson, Wilmington, raised the champion commercial gilt. Named as champion swine showmen of the day were Ed Smith and Bill Strawson, both of Wilmington.

The purple ribbon in the poultry division went to Marla Selk, Beecher, for her pen-of-three ducks. Fred Fultz of Monroe Home Juice judged the show and Mrs. Frances Schultz, Lockport, served as superintendent.

The rabbit show numbered 42 head according to superintendent Mrs. Willard Boicken, Beecher. Billy Dudicek, Lockport, owned the champion pen-of-three meat rabbits, Dean Jacobson, Beecher showed the champion buck, and John Marshall, Jr., Wilmington, exhibited best doe. Roy Fitzer, New Lenox, rated the rabbit entries.

Those who attended the second day of the show on Wednesday learned that 4-H is no longer solely a "down on the farm" proposition, but has reached out and involved urban youth. This year, fewer than 400 of Will county's 1500 4-H'ers live on a farm. Projects such as bird study, babysitting, party planning, indoor gardening, gun safety, photography, and home improvement were on display along with the dairy and garden shows.

Serving as superintendents for these non-livestock projects were Mrs. Frank Gardner, Mrs. David Friant, Nancy Friant, and Ivan Archibald, all of New Lenox, Fred Wilhelm, Joliet, Miss Marie Tewes, Frankfort, Mrs. Frank Vance, Cliff Stewart, Floyd Schultz, all of Plainfield, Miss Dorothea Eisenbrandt, George Brisbin, Mrs. Frances Schultz, and Mrs. William Pomatto, Lockport. Also superintending were Mrs. Melvin Connor, Manhattan, and Mrs. Everett Hauert, Elwood.

The cat show was an event new to Will county 4-H. The feline show by Jeff Davis, Mokena, was named champion of this year's competition.

In the dairy show, Dean Heisner, Peotone, was a double winner taking senior showmanship as well as senior champion Holstein female honors.

Kent Heisner, Peotone, showed the junior champion Holstein. Brian Heisner, also of Peotone, won the junior dairy showmanship award. Phil Goodwin, Wilmington, prevented a Peotone-Heisner sweep in the dairy show by winning the junior champion Brown Swiss prize.

Twenty-four food demonstrations were the focal point of attention in the exhibition building on Wednesday. Julie Peel, Plainfield, was selected as the top demonstrator of the day. Those who will attend the state fair with Julie include Annette Oliver and Alice Salzman, Peotone, Darlene Dilworth, New Lenox, Becky and Jill Dralle from Frankfort, Trudy Irwin and Diane Saar, Plainfield, Jamie Dalton, Lockport, and Meg Guse, Wilmington.

Selected as alternates were Janet and Joyce Vance, Plainfield, Tana Vercellotti, Joliet, Alice Bosnik, Plainfield, Ellen Sanford, Joliet, Jean Kruger, Peotone, and Colleen Martin, Joliet.

In the garden show, Bill Strawson, Wilmington, had the champion family garden and Steve Jacobson, Beecher exhibited the champion town garden. The Wesley 4-H Hustlers' display, organized by David McMurtry, Manteno, was named first in the exhibition class.

Thursday brought a hint of a breeze to another scorcher of a day. The clothing revue was an all-day affair in the exhibition building with some 750 girls modeling outfits they had made. Fourteen lucky girls from that group were selected to attend the state fair modeling classes. They were Carolyn Fitzer, Joan Jacques, Debra Lasser, Laurie Maier, Christy McCoy, and Sue Pritz, all of Joliet, Sally Borms and Janet Thiesfeld, Peotone, Debbie Sorenson and Cathy Holz, Wilmington, JoAnn Vance and Mary Dollinger, Plainfield, and Nelda Bradley of Manhattan.

Alternates in dress revue are Vivian Meyer, New Lenox, Bonnie Thompson, Peotone, Jonine Scheidt, Joliet, Susan Habing, Wilmington, Elaine Maier, Joliet, Julie Peel, Plainfield, Laura Lankenau, Mokena, Kathy Cline, Plainfield, Sandy Peterson, Joliet, Dana Howen, Lockport, Kathy Young, Joliet, Patsy Klenz, Peotone, Carol Patek, Joliet, and Sheila Reddy, Wilmington.

The garments chosen to be sent for judging on their construction were those made by Carolyn Fitzer and Pat Sheets, Joliet, Ellen Gorman, Monee, and Sharon Neuls, Mokena. The alternates were Shirley Borms, Peotone, Becky Dralle, Frankfort, Colleen Lonergan, Plainfield, and Jean Lewis, Joliet.

The beef show was in progress outside during the clothing show with 80 head on parade. Kevin Smith, Mokena, was at the halter of the champion Shorthorn heifer and Judge Thomas Saxe of Norway, Illinois selected John Francis's calf from Wilmington as the champion Angus.

Beef superintendents Harvey Lewis, Joliet, and Kelso Sharp, Elwood reported that Kevin Smith won the steer grand championship on his Hereford-Angus crossbred. John Plese's Angus from Wilmington was named reserve champion.

Cheryl Goodwin, Wilmington, won the champion junior beef showman honors and Steve Francis was chosen as champion in the senior division.

Many of the livestock champions at this year's fair received certificates for free feed compliments of Honneger's Feed Company and Producers' Manhattan Grain Company.

Budget tentatively adopted

NEW LONOX — The annual appropriation ordinance of $2,879,428 for Lincoln-Way High School District 210 has been tentatively adopted by the board and placed on public inspection in the school office. The office is open from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. The budget will be finally adopted following a public hearing at the board meeting Aug. 24. This is larger than the one for the 1971-72 fiscal year by some $300,000, due principally to salary and wage increases and price increases in materials and supplies, it was explained.

Estimated expenditures for the coming year are $2,879,428; the estimated income is $2,806,216. If Gov. Ogilvie signs the bill providing for a new formula for state aid for schools — and school authorities believe he will —

Lincoln-Way should get another $28,000 to add to its income, a board spokesman said.

Last year's income was $2,507,708 and expenditures totaled $2,464,216, which left the district some $43,000 in the black. Broken down the budget for 1972-73 fiscal year shows the proposed expenditures to be as follows:

Educational fund (salaries and educational supplies) — $1,905,653.
Building fund (maintenance, repairs, alterations) — $334,193.
Bonds and interest — $381,162.
Transportation — $105,109.
Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund (pensions for non-certificated personnel) — $34,498.
Working cash fund — $46,650.

45th Annual Report

Robert Kaczala, President of Lake Shore Savings & Loan Association, announced that on May 31, 1972, Lake Shore Savings completed its 45th fiscal year.

Mr. Kaczala noted that significant changes occurred during the past twelve month period. The Association has put $2,689,000.00 in first mortgage real estate loans into its marketing area. This figure represents an 8.2% increase in Lake Shore Savings' loan portfolio.

In addition, during the same period, the Association's savings grew over $1,000,000.00, or a 10.6% growth rate over fiscal 1971.

During 1972, Lake Shore Savings has repaid the Federal Home Loan Bank for advances made to the Association in the amount of $1,010,000.00.

During the first half of 1972, Lake Shore Savings experienced an increased demand for home mortgages. To help meet the demand for mortgage money the Association has instituted a continuing gift program for savers to act as an inducement to savers to add funds to their accounts. It is hoped that this program will continue to attract savings in sufficient amounts to enable the Association to continue to offer first mortgage real estate loans at the current rates.

On behalf of the Officers, Directors and Staff of Lake Shore Savings, we appreciate the trust and confidence this community has displayed in our Association, and we pledge to continue to provide each and every customer with a safe, secure, and profitable place to save.

Sincerely,

Robert Kaczala, President

Eagles soar into finals

ORLAND PARK — The Carl Sandburg High School summer baseball squad is competing in the state championship this week after capturing the conference title Tuesday night last week.

The Eagles defeated Evergreen Park 5-4 in the Tuesday evening contest at Sandburg to gain the title. In the first inning things got shaky for the Eagles when they let in four unearned runs on only one hit.

As it turned out that one hit was Evergreen's only hit of the night. Jeff King went seven innings for the Eagles and allowed only one hit, striking out eight and walking none.

The Eagles got on the board with a run in their half of the first thanks to a Crane D'Loughy's run scoring double.

The game was the same until the bottom of the third when the long ball Eagles came to a bat. Ron Weiland started things off with a single to left, followed by two singles by DeLoughy and Bill Nelson. This loaded the bases for Jim Harding, the Eagles Mr. Power.

On the first pitch Harding hit a screaming fly ball that had Evergreen's centerfielder making a futile stab as the ball went off his mitt for a grand slam home run.

Bill Nicolai, Steve Nelson and Tom O'Mera, a freshman, also contributed with base hits for the Eagles.

The Eagles were not through, however, with winning championship games. Being the winner of the South Section of the Summer League play Sandburg met Lincoln-Way, winner of the North Section in a best of three series for the over all league crown.

Sandburg won the necessary two to capture the title.

In the first meeting lefty Steven Rodeck hurled a three-hit shutout in downing the Knights in a 1-0 victory. The Eagles got their lone run when Bill Nelson beat a throw to the plate by a Lincoln-Way infielder on a ground hit by Tom O'Mera.

In the second game the Knights turned the table on Sandburg, shooting down the Eagles 10-5. Sandburg committed five errors and could only muster two hits. John Carroll was the loser on the mound.

It was a different story, however, in the championship game. Joe Stratta hurled five and two thirds innings, striking out five and allowing only four hits.

Stratta ran into trouble in the sixth inning when with two out he walked three straight batters. Coach Ron Mellen brought in ace Jeff King to finish the game a bring home Sandburg's second title of the summer.

Bill Nelson had a perfect day at the plate with three hits in three trips and Jim Harding continued on his hot pace with a bases' loaded triple. Pitcher Stratta chipped in with two hits to raise his batting average to .290.

Catcher Bill Nicolai boasts a .443 average long with hitters Ron Weiland with a .329, Bill Nelson .328 and Crane DeLoughy .320. The Eagles team a batting average is .290.

"Our pitching still is thin but the boys have done a great job," Coach Mellen said.

All of the swimmers and divers will have a well deserved vacation after the Conference finals on Saturday, July 29th.

Championship play will begin Sunday

TINLEY PARK — With the championship playoffs scheduled to begin Sunday, July 30, both Tinley Park Softball League divisions each have an unanswered question.

In the Continental Division, two teams have claimed the top spot. Both the Brotherhood and the Nickelbag Revised (assuming a Nickelbag win over the cellar dwelling Bears) will have identical records, and a one-game position play-off will be necessary.

In the Federal Division, the last game of the season between the Snappers and the Lugans will determine which of these two clubs makes the playoffs. The Snappers downed the Lugans in their previous meeting, but the Lugans have played outstanding ball in the past six weeks. The Lehmann Tap entry turned a 3-7 mark into 10-8 by winning seven of their last eight contests.

The league quarterfinal playoffs are scheduled for both Tinley Park High School and Mental Health Center fields for 2 p.m. on Sunday with second and third (if necessary) games on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 6:30 p.m.

At the high school diamonds, matchups will be the winner of the Continental Division against either the Lugans or Snappers, and the Landlovers against the Roadrunners. At the Mental Health Center, the Losers will play the Superchiefs, while the Bombers go against the Continental Division against either the Lugans or Snappers, and the Landlovers against the Roadrunners. At the Mental Health Center, the Losers will play the Superchiefs, while the Bombers go against the Continental Division's second place club.

Board votes 4-1

No appeal on Fernway decision

WESTHAVEN — The Westhaven village board has voted not to appeal the court decision on the Fernway annexation to Orland Park.

At the Saturday, July 15 board meeting Trustee's Diane Bartholmey, Meredith Macki, William Presler and Donald Kellogg voted yes and President Curtis Whitaker voted no, after Trustee Bartholmey moved that the board not appeal the Fernway annexation decision. Trustees Gerald Devero and Ralph Aldrich were absent from the board meeting.

President Whitaker urged the board to continue the appeal saying, "The village should not just walk away from something we have got into for over a year, as the village has already spent $6,000 in attorney fees in the Fernway case."

Trustee Meredith Macki corrected Whitaker, saying that the correct amount spent on attorney fees for the case have been $1,428.75.

Whitaker said, "You are allowing us to be hemmed off, and Westhaven will be kicked in the teeth. We're just trying to keep a corporation that has been here since 1962." Finally the village president stated that the persons making the motion and the second on the Fernway appeal didn't know what they were doing.

In a press release handed out by Mayor Whitaker, he stated that the village fire protection may be in jeopardy as some mail addressed to him had been withheld, and it appears that his mail is being censored and that postal inspectors have been notified.

He said Trustee William Presler had been given a letter by Trustee Donald Kellogg about the fire protection from the Orland Park Fire Protection District addressed to Mayor Whitaker.

At the Wednesday night committee meeting Trustee William Presler explained that the letter in question was addressed to Whitaker in care of the village clerk. Since Whitaker was out of town and that Clerk Short was going on vacation, Presler explained, the letter was opened and given to Trustee Kellogg.

During the course of the board meeting the fire protection contract was discussed by Trustee Presler, and Whitaker stated that there was no rush to pass the contract as he had obtained an extension until August. Attorney Glink will review the contract before the next board meeting, as there seems to be a change in the contract from the previous year.

Presler discussed the possibility of training men for police work. The trustee said that Captain Wegan of Oak Lawn has offered to train people for police work for Westhaven with no charge involved.

The village has received six applications for policemen. The applications will tentatively be discussed at the next Wednesday night committee meeting Aug. 2.

The Village appropriation ordinance will be studied in detail at a special meeting Thursday, July 27, at 7:30 p.m.

Warrant No. 46, totaling $4,469.54 was approved and signed by Whitaker. The break down of the warrant is as follows: Office Equipment (building dept.) $967.69; Murphy insurance $1211.00; Lungren accountants $50.00; Bell Telephone $29.54 and 14.95; Jensen Water $17.40; Building Inspector Ward $375.00, and $135.00; Building department secretary, 46 hours, $92.00 and 40 hours, $80.00;

Also Deputy Clerk Barbara Sea, 12 hours, $24.00 and six hours, $12.00 and 41½ hours, $83.00; Electrical Inspector Winchell $60.00; Attorney Glink (Mandamus suit) 113.00; President Whitaker, village pay, $60.00; Clerk Short, village pay $35.00.

Also Trustees Bartholmey, Macki, Presler, Kellogg and Aldrich, village pay, $30.00 each; Trustee Devero, village pay, $15.00; rental on radar unit 58.51.

The board authorized Attorney Glink to make the necessary arrangements to purchase the lot on which the village hall stands. The motion was passed several meetings ago but the amount needed to purchase the land was not correct as several tax liens amounting to $2,749.13 is now outstanding on the property for back taxes. Attorney Glink will negotiate with First Lien Co., which now owns the property in question.

Jay Rosenberg owner of sixteen lots at approximately 167th Street and 90th Avenue presented the board with a plat of a subdivision for the property for the purpose of presenting his plat to the Zoning Amendment Committee for its study.

Whitaker told Rosenberg, "You must come to the Building Department first with plans. No one has seen anything."

Rosenburg explained he didn't know what kind of houses he will build on the property as yet, and that he has an opinion from a title and trust company on the property. He said at this time he just wishes to present the plat for study as there are many problems involved in building including the sewer problem.

Trustee Kellogg moved that the board accept the plat for study by the zoning Amendment Committee, and that a meeting be held Aug. 5 at noon for the purpose of studying the plat. All trustees voted yes on the Kellogg motion. Whitaker voted no, and stated that the board didn't know the situation of the land.

Two ordinances were passed by the board: One for the treasurer's salary of $35.00, per month. The village treasurer presently receives no salary.

The second ordinance passed requires that all future buildings have a certificate of grade prior to occupancy.

Thieves hit model

WESTHAVEN — On Saturday, July 22nd, two of the three Tekton model homes were broken into and items such as draperies, shower curtains, bedspreads, lamps, pictures and pillows were stolen.

The burglars entered through the back doors of each of the homes by breaking in. The one door was nailed shut with a piece of lumber, and was broken when entered. The other door, in the bi-level was opened with a screwdriver of some sort which was used to split the moulding.

The incident occurred in the early morning hours of Sunday around 12:00 to 12:30. The thieves were spotted leaving the scene with draperies from the bi-level.

It is believed four youths are involved. One is believed to be a girl.

Cost of the stolen items is said to be in the area of $500. However, this has not been finalized at this date.

Questions staff hirings

TINLEY PARK — Eva Meagher, a Fernway resident questioned members of the District 140 school board at Thursday's meeting. Mrs. Meagher asked why new teachers were hired for the 1972-73 school year, and the cost estimates of the increase educational staff.

Mrs. Meagher said she would compile more questions to ask the board at their next meeting on Thursday, August 10th.

In his superintendent's report, John Bannes announced that the rain storm of last week blew down the incinerator stacks for the second time. Also milk bids and gasoline bids have been mailed.

Bannes also mentioned that clerical help will probably be needed two weeks before school begins.

On the subject of building, more bidders will come in sometime this week. The air conditioning installation for the Tinley Heights School will begin on Thursday of this week.

Enrollment figures of kindergarten students have been released. For the 1973-74 school year 169 children are enrolled; for 74-75, 194; 75-76, 220; and 76-77, 195.

The board also approved the submission of an application to the Illinois School Building Commission.

Scariano talks roads, trust at WCIA meeting

WESTHAVEN — State Representative Anthony Scariano (D-Park Forest) was the guest speaker at the July 21st meeting of the Westhaven Civic Improvement Association, discussed problems in the village.

The widening of 159th street at present was discussed at some length as Scariano said the average person is shut out of any consideration. "Small businesses are hurt along the construction route; through the laxity of state and federal government, they have been permitting the highway to go through and are getting away with murder."

Scariano showed concern over the problems Westhaven has been facing "especially involving public officials. People have a right to be skeptical about government and public officials." He wondered "how much and how far to trust them." This summer, Scariano is devoting his time to "troubleshoot" problems.

One of the problems beside buildings and officials, was raised by Eugene O'Brien, who briefed Scariano on the Westhaven water dilemma.

Scariano, glass in hand, glanced up and said "you mean this?" and raised the water glass to drink. "What seems to be the problem?" Mrs. O'Brien told Scariano that the water was rusty and the smell and taste was terrible.

Scariano seemed genuinely interested in the qualms the people over the quality of their village water and announced "All right. I want you all to jot down all the things you want brought to my attention; let's see if we can't get some action."

"I think I could be doing my Christian duty here as well as in church," Scariano said as he made an appointment to meet with officials. The meeting will be Sunday, July 30th at the Westhaven village hall between 10:00 and 10:30 a.m.

Scariano concluded by saying he would "take notes" when going through Westhaven.

Thief robs squad radio

WESTHAVEN — Once again village property has been stolen.

The latest incident took place Thursday, July 20, between 2 a.m. and 8 a.m. Side vent windows of both the village's squad car and station wagon were smashed, and radio and vascar equipment was taken.

Two weeks ago a large air conditioner was stolen from the window of the village hall.

Cook County detective's are investigating the incident.

Petitioners want out

WESTHAVEN — A petition to de-annex the north section of the Village of Westhaven will be circulated among village residents, according to a village resident who is supporting the de-annexation.

The resident, who refused to be identified, said that after waiting a period of 90 days the petitioners, if successful, plan to approach Orland Park village officials in hopes of annexing to that village.

The proposed section of the village to be de-annexed is approximately from 159th Street to 163rd Street and from 88th Avenue west to 94th Avenue.

Will-Cook line site for 800 dwellings?

HOMER TOWNSHIP — Though plans have not been finalized, it appears more than likely that Homer Township will soon be the site of a Continental Homes Inc. building project.

Royal Faubian, president of the newly formed Continental Homes, responded to an interview by explaining that his firm presently has an option to purchase approximately 200 acres of land in the area of 143rd St. and Parker Road. Continental hopes to use the property for the construction of approximately 800 dwellings in both single and multi family units.

Both Faubian and Homer Township Supervisor Jerome J. Paddock emphasized that the subdivision plans have not yet been submitted to the Will County Board of Supervisors for zoning approval.

Faubian explained that he hopes to develop a "residential area in keeping with the surrounding housing." At present, he added, there is mostly farming residences in the vicinity, which is approximately two miles west of Will-Cook Road and south of the Will-Cook line.

Continental hopes to construct approximately three single dwellings per acre with slightly higher density for multi-family units, Faubian said.

The single family units will sell for a price between $40,000 and $42,000, according to Faubian. He explained that he anticipates approximately $25,000 per dwelling on the multi-family units.

Faubian said he hopes to restrict the sales of the homes to conventional financing instead of Federal Housing Authority (FHA) or Veterans' Administration (VA) loans. "I have some reservations about federal financing," he said, adding "some of the HUD (Housing and Urban Development) programs that they've instituted are not in the public interest."

Included in the tentative Continental plans are a water retention area, a lake area and a "green-belt area," according to Faubian. He emphasized, however, that he must yet speak with the members of the board of supervisors regarding some of these plans. He insisted that it is the intention of Continental "to do whatever they want," in reference to the board of supervisors.

When quizzed regarding an increase in area schools due to the population boom resulting from the development, Faubian explained that Continental intends to donate a grade school site on the property. He also suggested a willingness to negotiate on other contributions to area schools.

Faubian was formerly associated with the Kaufman and Board development firm. At present the Continental offices are located at Hinsdale.

Though Faubian would not give any indication as to when his firm plans to begin construction, Continental's public relations consultant Liz Young said the firm hopes to have models completed by September.

TINLEY PARK — Bremen Township was visited on July 18 by Edmund J. Kucharski, assistant secretary of state. His day began at 7 a.m. at the Midlothian Rock Island Train station and culminated at Cavallini's restaurant in Midlothian at a 2:30 "coffee."

In the interval between, Kucharski met commuters at the train stations in Midlothian and Tinley Park, and visited with residents in Markham and the above communities, stopped centers in Midlothian and Tinley.

Said State representative Don A. Moore, Midlothian, "Ed Kucharski as candidate for Secretary of State is campaigning early in order to cover as much area as possible. He was very well received during his tour of our southwest suburban area. His past record speaks for itself."

Kucharski began his political career as a Chicago alderman, and then he held county wide elected offices of Clerk of Court, Recorder of Deeds and County Treasurer.

In these offices he reduced the superfluous staff and appropriations and computerized and modernized the offices. When he was County Treasurer the department was reduced by some 100 personnel.

During his term as assistant-Secretary of State, he has modernized this department in order to — as he puts it — "Clean up that mess."

Remarked Moore, "Ed's suburban visit is an indication of the activity that the republican party is going to maintain. We're not taking this election for granted and won't allow apathy."

TINLEY PARK — A major fund-raising event for State Representative Leland Rayson (D-9th) will be held at the Orchard Hill Farm, 168th Street and Kilpatrick Avenue, Sunday, Aug. 6.

Dick Hutchison, campaign chairman, said that the thrust of the cocktail party will be on fellowship and not politics.

Tickets are $5 per person and interested residents may call 532-0199 for further information.

Five firemen take class

ORLAND PARK — Five volunteer firemen spent 14 hours last weekend learning the latest methods in rescue work. The men, volunteers of the Orland Fire Protection District, attended a special service class on auto extrication presented by the University of Illinois Extension.

Robert Morris, Michael Humphrey, Al Leidecker, Harry Duer and Jerry Hokkerman, took eight hours of lecture and training on Saturday and six hours of practical experience on Sunday.

The instructor, O.B. Streep, from Normal State University is reported to be an authority in the field of teaching all types of rescue work including aerial rescues and rescues from wells.

Humphrey, Duer and Leidecker received certificates for completing the course which equips them to properly remove persons from severely damaged cars.

The men will use such equipment as hydraulic wedges, spreaders and come-alongs (chain hoists) in their rescue work. All this equipment is carried on the trucks.

Firemen said that is why three vehicles roll to every accident.

Village lifts stop orders

WESTHAVEN — An agreement between Westhaven Building Inspector, Dennis Ward and Tekton's Emmery Harmon was reached at the July 19th meeting concerning the repair of streets and homes in the village.

After being presented with a list of demands by Ward, Harmon went down the list and discussed each item with Ward.

Up to the present, there has been a lack of understanding and a poor relationship between the village and Tekton because of the quality of workmanship on buildings.

Ward primarily disagreed with the quality of the siding on Tekton homes and the filling in of drainage ditches. He then proceeded to discuss items listed on the backlog sheet. A 30-day period was requested in which all items were to have been completed. Harmon said, "I cannot guarantee it will be done in 30 days."

In North Westhaven all sidewalks are complete except for which funds are in escrow. On one sidewalk in North Westhaven is a fire hydrant blocking the sidewalk.

Citizens Utilities is perfectly willing to remove the hydrant, but only at Tekton or Westhaven's expense. The hydrant on the public walk is in front of an unoccupied home.

Another item mentioned concerned the finishing of all service walks. Harmon said that the walks have been completed. Walks 30" wide are to be replaced with 36" walks; Harmon said they were started on July 18th.

Harmon refused to replace those walks with flat work cracks unless the cracks are raised and present a hazard to walkers.

The discussion over backfilling and finishing yards was lengthy; Harmon said he would fill the yards with topsoil. Many citizens questioned the term "topsoil". Harmon said whatever was taken off the top of the land before work began was to be replaced.

Harmon added that if the topsoil was unsuitable, it would be replaced.

Another lengthy discussion was over the replacement of vertical siding with horizontal siding. It was stated that quite a few buildings were resheeted, and Harmon agreed that any siding that had to be replaced would be replaced with horizontal.

During the talk over siding, it was said that siding would not be replaced if the homeowner didn't want it replaced. It was also agreed that Tekton would take siding color samples and Dennis Ward to each home to present the siding to the homeowner requesting new siding.

Per week, ten to fifteen homes have been re-sided and Ward felt that he would have no trouble two homes a day. At present, 110 homes already have vertical siding. On all new homes, horizontal siding has been installed.

Another item was to repair or replace all bad windows. Harmon agreed to this.

He also agreed to the replacing of bad floors with a two to three inch pitch.

Ward also included an item that all Tekton owned land would be cleaned of concrete and rubbish. Harmon said the clean-up would be done.

Defective roof repairing was also given a positive response by Harmon.

In addition, non-shut off vents in the crawl space would be replaced with adjustable units to be open in summer, and closed in winter.

All downspouts are also to be redone to fit the bottom of the siding; a splash block is to be placed under the downspouts.

All homeowners were urged to compile a list of the problems with their homes.

Ward and Harmon agreed that if the backlog of work is not completed by August 31st, (with the exception of minor siding,) no more building permits will be issued to Tekton.

Tekton agrees to repairs

WESTHAVEN — The issue of the 46 stop orders that were placed on Tekton buildings under construction was settled at the Westhaven village board meeting Saturday, July 15.

After a 1½-hour discussion the board moved to lift the stop orders under the condition that a meeting be held Wednesday, July 19, to iron out all differences with Tekton and also to negotiate the remaining 150 building permits that are still outstanding.

In presenting Tekton's position on the halted construction, Tekton's Attorney David Zajicek stated that in April of 1971 President Curtis Whitaker suggested that Tekton take out 238 building permits as Whitaker said a new board may be elected and that the village would benefit if the permits were issued in advance.

Tekton paid the sum of $34,852.50 for the permits. Zajicek continued that there was no way Tekton could build 238 homes in six months. Village ordinance states that a building must be started within six months of the issuance of a building permit.

Zajicek said his firm acted in good faith by buying the permits, and also that Tekton was allowed to start construction of the homes well after the six months had expired, and that the buildings in question had been periodically inspected with never a word said.

The Tekton attorney also stated that the village board had not stopped the construction, but the mayor and Building Inspector Ward had. Zajicek then asked that Tekton be allowed to complete the 46 homes, "as it is draining our corporate energies to put out these fires."

Zajicek in ending his statement on his firm's position stated that Tekton is willing to negotiate the remaining 150 permits, but, "would not want to pay new fees for something we paid for in advance. The village continues to get the benefit of the $34,000 paid by Tekton for the permits."

President Whitaker explained that Tekton's original plan was for 29 homes and that there were many discrepancies in the two model homes. He said he worked hand in hand with Tekton to correct the situation.

Whitaker said that the buildings were being nailed up with naked sheeting, no insulation of any kind was being used and that Tekton also had problems with Citizens Utilities Co.

Last Thursday, Whitaker said, Inspector Ward asked Tekton to pull back siding on a home and there was no insulation once again.

"There is general bad craftsmanship, bad floors, bridging, cracked foundations, etc.," the mayor reported.

Whitaker said he felt that the purchase of the 238 permits would show Citizens Utilities Co. some growth in Westhaven as there had been only nine homes built in 10 years, and the large amount of permits would give the village a shot in the arm.

"Tekton has not built the proper house they came in with," Whitaker claimed. Finally Whitaker said, "Tekton knew what the ordinance read in regard to the six-month time limit, they purchased copies of the ordinance."

"Let's get to the bargaining table," asked Whitaker. "Tekton must live by the village ordinance, and I'm very sorry that Tekton took the assumption that you could work on a permit forever."

Trustee Donald Kellogg asked Zajicek if he knew about the six-month time limit when the permits were purchased. Zajicek replied that he was not with Tekton at that time.

Attorney Zajicek asked the board to pass a resolution that would lift the stop orders and allow Tekton to continue on the 46 homes. Whitaker said the board cannot pass such a resolution, "and the trustee that makes the motion to lift the stop orders I will personally take to court," Whitaker added.

Trustee Kellogg then moved that the board lift the stop orders, under the condition that a meeting be held Wednesday to iron out all of the problems with Tekton, and have all agreements in writing by the next village board meeting, Aug. 5.

Kellogg stated that if truthful negotiations are not held there will be no additional permits issued to Tekton.

Guaranteed twice as long as any other economy car.

Every Volkswagen is guaranteed for 24 months or 24,000 miles.

Most other economy cars are guaranteed only 12 months or 12,000 miles.

But don't take our word for it. Take our words for it:

"If an owner maintains and services his vehicle in accordance with the Volkswagen maintenance schedule any factory part found to be defective in material or workmanship within 24 months or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first (except normal wear and tear on service items) will be repaired or replaced by any U.S. or Canadian Volkswagen Dealer. Jim Newman's business is models . . . airplanes

Research and development

Airplane factory

By Gertrude Gallagher
ORLAND PARK — Plunk down $1.95 for a model airplane and what do you have?

Three months solid work. Twenty five different types of drawings excluding art work. Thirty five drawings for an instruction sheet.

"People don't realize the amount of work behind it," says Jim Newman.

Jim Newman designs model airplanes. He was speaking of all the work needed before a model goes on the shelf for sale.

Newman goes on to describe the tremendous amount of engineering behind each of the many balsa wood or plastic, rubber band, gas engine or radio controlled airplanes that ones sons - or even moms and dads - thrive on.

He says there are eight million known modellers. This doesn't count those people who only make an occasional model.

Speaking in a delightful British accent the 37 year old designer has lived with his 11 year old son Mike for two years in Orland Park. He says aviation has been his life. Born and raised on air bases his father introduced him to model airplanes as a hobby. Later he was in the Royal Air Force and subsequently worked for the British Aircraft Corporation.

Having had a few airplane designs published in an aviation magazine he got his first break when the publisher of the magazine recommended him for a job designing for a manufacturer of model planes. Later he responded to an ad for a designer to work in the United States.

Newman was trained in engineering and radio engineering at the Royal Air Force College. He has an unusual talent in being not only a designer but an artist and engineer with a knowledge of production technique.

His garage at 15227 Hiawatha Trail is replete with models and plans for models. At the moment he is completing a series of four planes made of balsa wood and priced to sell at $1.95 each. There is a Cessna, a Piper Cub, a Vietnam type plane and a Ciffart Rae (air traffic spelled backwards.)

Neman plans to be in Orland for several more months after which he is moving to Hobart, Indiana to assume the position of Sales Promotion Manager for a model airplane company.

Jim and son Mike have lived in Orland for two years
